South Central work building costs $138,000

South Central Bell Telephone has announced plans for construction of a $138,000 service operations building in Bay St. Louis.
F.M. Kyle, A. district manager, said yesterday the structure would be located behind (north of) the existing South Central building.
Describing Bell's attitude towards Hancock County as being "Keen on the future," Kyle said the new structure will be used by the company as a work center.
"The facility will provide us with about five times as much space as we now have for our installation, maintenance, and repair crews."
"It is designed to fulfill its task well into the mid-1980's," the divisional manager allowed.
He said sufficient space will exist for parking of 23 service vehicles, plus employee transportation.

Phillips and attorney George E. Morris are the counsel of record for Bay St. Louis in obtaining an adjustment of debt incurred as a result of a judgement obtained in the Jimmy Ray Warner II case against the City of Bay St. Louis.
Wagner was left paralyzed from the neck down, as the result of injuries allegedly received following his diving off an unfinished municipal pier on Friday, July 4, 1969. He died on Nov. 28, 1975 as the result of a urinary tract infection.
U. S. District Court Judge Walter Nixon ordered Bay St. Louis to pay a $375,000 negligence judgement, plus $80,000 interest to the estate of Jimmy Ray Warner, II.
Legal entries seeking to have the judgement discarded or reduced having failed, Bay St. Louis last fall filed for an adjustment of debts under Chapter 9, Title II, of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, a section designed to be available to a municipality in financial trouble.

A certified public accountant from Pascagoula, Jerry Mallett, allegedly testified earlier in March that according to the city's audit report as of Sept. 30, 1977, Bay St. Louis had $495,000 in surplus funds which could be used to pay off the debt.

On March 23, 1978, an order from the U.S. District Court was given to borrow the money to pay the indebtedness. The City received an oral commitment from Hancock and Merchants Bank for the loan "conditioned, however, on the successful validation of said loan by the Chancery Court of Hancock County." Upon the Bay's legal counsel concurring with William Bacon, state board counsel, on May 8, 1978, to discuss the (LEGAL HISTORY-PAGE 6)

Diving accident mars park outing, McLeod site of vacation tragedy

by EDGAR PEREZ
A Sunday outing in Hancock County's McLeod Park ended in tragedy for a group of young people from the Kiln when a member of their group drowned following an ill-fated dive from a bluff overlooking the Jourdan River.
Hancock County Coroner Carl Banderet Sunday ruled the death of Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, an accidental drowning.
Banderet said Cramer was apparently stunned or knocked unconscious after diving from a 25-foot bluff on the river's edge.
The youth never surfaced after the dive, his companions told officers of the Hancock County Sheriff's office who investigated the incident.
Deputies reported receiving a call for assistance from the park about 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Cramer's body was recovered by dragline at 4:10 p.m. by Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson of Sheriff Sylvan Ladner's office.
Several youths had previously made unsuccessful attempts to find the victim by diving into the 20-foot depths off the edge of the river where Cramer had dived.

The divers' efforts were hampered, in addition, by sunken trees in the vicinity.
Cramer's drivers license, turned over to deputies by his companions, listed his address as 2200 N. Bonforte Blvd., Pueblo, Colo.

Officers were told Cramer was a

Hurricane season opens June 1

National Weather Service develops storm tide surge forecast capability

by EDGAR PEREZ
National Weather Service scientists will be "armed" with a major new forecasting system for use during the 1978 hurricane season which officially begins next Thursday, June 1.
Officials at the NWS office in New Orleans this week reported development of an early warning system for predicting "size and movement" of devastating tidal surges which usually accompany hurricanes.
Hurricane Camille sent a 25-foot wall of water crashing over the Mississippi Gulf Coast in 1969, killing some 146 people.

The weather scientists said they now can give accurate warnings up to six hours before such "tidal waves" are destined to cross the United States coastline of the Gulf of Mexico.
In addition, less accurate warnings can be given up to 12 hours in advance.
House starts, drop permit values climb
Building statistics issued by the Mississippi Research and Development Center, show a falling off in residential starts when compared to the same time span in 1977, with dollar value of new permits at 4.7 percent above last year's figures.
Permits issued for April, 1978, throughout the three coast counties, Hancock, Harrison and Jackson, with their 1977 comparison following in parenthesis: residential, 142 permits issued, $4,001,411 dollar value, (170, $43,206,254) down 4.9 percent; commercial, 25 permits, $1,519,620, (20, $1,088,798) up 39.6; public and other, 75, $1,355,443 (58, $1,180,384) up 14.3; alterations, alterations and repairs, 288, $1,296,277, (267, $1,330,107) down 2.6.

For the year to date (end April), residential, 626 permits issued, (514, $1,180,384) up 14.3; alterations, alterations and repairs, 288, $1,296,277, (267, $1,330,107) down 2.6.

as to size of impending tidal surges and probable path of movement can be issued by the Weather Service up to 12 hours in advance, the service reported.
In addition, the new system can be coupled with current river flood forecasting systems to predict tidal surges into the Mississippi River as far north as Baton Rouge, according to Clarence Vicroy of the River Forecast Center in Slidell.
Vicroy, whose office is connected with the NASA Computer Center, noted the probability of a hurricane in the northern Gulf during the first month of the official season is "highly unlikely."

FATAL LEAP—Witnesses told investigators from the Hancock County Sheriff's Office that Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, of Pueblo, Colo., after a second dive from this high bluff on the Jourdan River in McCleod Park Sunday, failed to surface. Rescue workers recovered his body from the river about 4:10 p.m., some 30 minutes after that fatal leap.

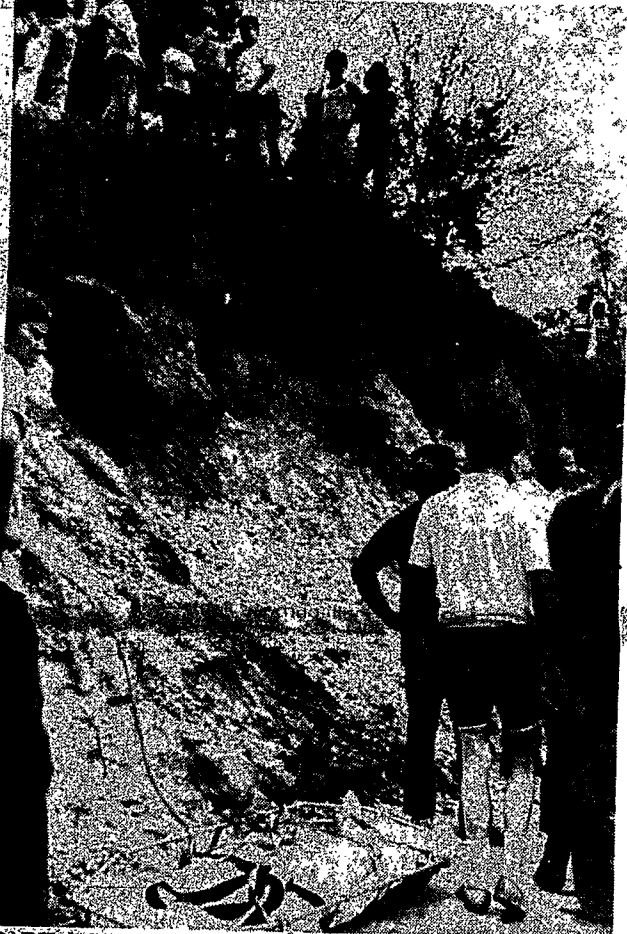

CORONER'S INQUEST—Hancock County Coroner Carl Banderet, hat in hand, swears in an on-site jury composed of rescue workers from the Hancock Sheriff's Office and Diamondhead Fire Department at the conclusion of his investigation of a drowning at McCleod Park Sunday. Banderet ruled as accidental the death of Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, of Pueblo, Colo.

DIVERS SEARCH for the body of Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, of Pueblo, Colo., along a sunken tree in the Jourdan River at McCleod Park Sunday.

DANGEROUS DIVE—Chief Deputy Ronnie Peterson of the Hancock County Sheriff's Office points out to Coroner Carl Banderet, in white hat, the high bluff along the banks of the Jourdan River in McCleod Park from which, witnesses said, Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, of Colorado, made a fatal dive Sunday. Also assisting in the investigation are Deputies A. J. Cuevas and Willie Lee.

PARK ACCIDENT—Grim spectators view the emergency operations to retrieve the body of Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, from the Jourdan River in McCleod Park Sunday after he drowned following a dive from this high bluff, according to witnesses. Park officials complained "NO DIVING" signs along the bluff are routinely removed by park patrons for use as firewood.

ACCIDENT REPORT—Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies, from left, Willie Lee, Ronnie Peterson, Ronnie Cuevas and A. J. Cuevas confer on details surrounding the accidental death by drowning of Kenneth Lyle Cramer, 21, of Pueblo, Colo., Sunday in the Jourdan River at McCleod Park.

IT'S A HIT - Robert Henry gets hit in opening night competition against Taconi's. The Red Machine came from behind to take a nine-point victory.

By SHARON WALLS
Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett took the mound to deliver the first pitch while Police Chief Douglas Williams played catcher and Father Terriot of St. Augustine Seminary served as umpire at the Men's City Softball League season-opening double-header Monday at Commerce Field. Father Terriot preceded the mayor's opening play with a benediction followed by the national anthem. City Councilman Harry Farve hosted the ceremony.

In the first game of the season, the Red Machine of St. Rose rolled over Taconi's, 14-5. Red centerfielder Elmo Jacobs pounded out the season's first home run in the bottom of the sixth to fuel a Machine scoring attack that powered the St. Rose team from a 6-5 lead to a nine point victory.

Taconi's opened up a 4-0 lead going into the bottom of the third when the Red Machine got on the score board. Taconi's defense held them to one run as a flying, tumbling catch by centerfielder at the fence with two bases covered in red shirts ended the set.

The Red Machine made a scoring drive that brought them within one run of the leaders in the fourth and had edged past by one score by the top of the sixth. Jacob's hit, which sailed over the centerfield fence and scored two runners highlighted the scoring drive that sent the team over the top, while the defense held Taconi's to no score in the last three innings.

Russell Fairconature claimed the win. Red batters Arnold Fairconature, Grady Willis, Eric Lymuel, Grady Willis, Eric Lymuel and Jacobs led the hitting, each going two for four. Otis Broomfield notched two doubles.

For Taconi's, Gary Griffin was two for four, while pitcher Ernie Johnson went three for four.

Southeast creeks are labs for spotted bass

Streams in southeast Mississippi were the laboratories when the state Game and Fish Commission conducted successful experiments on propagation of spotted bass.

The fingerling fish, about two inches long, were raised in newly constructed experimental ponds in the Pearl River Wildlife Management Area at Ross Barnett Reservoir and were stocked in several locations along Red Creek in southeast Mississippi.

Red Creek west of Wiggins, another 15,000 near Ramsey Springs in Stone County, and 15,000 in Jackson County.

As part of several experiments in spawning and rearing various species, fish scientists were trying to determine if spotted bass could be raised in the same manner as largemouth bass, the state's official fish. The Commission has, in the past, stocked largemouth bass in the state's streams, but the spotted variety is better suited to stream habitat.

GETTING SET - Bay Chief of Police Douglas Williams checks out equipment as he prepares to play catcher when the mayor throws out the first ball at opening of city softball league season. Father Terriot of St. Augustine serves as umpire. (Staff photo - Sharon Walls)

Water safety

The drowning this past weekend at McLeod Park makes us remember the same place July 4 1976, when we saw a flat bottom boat about 12 feet long loaded with swimmers sink in the middle of Jourdan River.

There must have been about a dozen people on that boat, kids, and not one life jacket in sight. It was fortunate other boats and swimmers were in the immediate area, who came quickly to the rescue for there were several unable to swim aboard the sinking boat.

This boat was just trying to cross the river to the sand on the other side for the kids to enjoy playing in the shallow water.

The obvious problem—the boat was overloaded with passengers, something which happens many times.

One must remember never to overload a boat, regardless of whether it is small or large. There are so many regulations on safety, life jackets a must for everyone, etc.

We would like to suggest to anyone who owns a boat that he take the time to check with water safety people, Coast Guard Auxiliary or someone who really knows, on the type and amount of equipment required for the type of boat owned.

Swimmers beware—logs are all over the rivers, some float under water, so you really never know where they are, diving into unfamiliar places is very dangerous.

Every year we have our share of drownings, let's try to do our best to curb this tragedy.

Summer is fun time for many. It is also a tragic time for too many families.

Have a safe summer.

Coast Guard Auxiliary sets boat safety exams

In response to National Safe Boating Week, June 1 through 7, Flotilla 35, Pass Christian, will conduct courtesy marine examinations and boating safety booths Saturday, Sunday (Memorial Day) as well as the following weekend, June 3 and 4. These examinations and booths will be located at launching ramps in Gulfport, Long Beach, Pass Christian and Bay View Marine on Henderson Point.

There is no charge for these boat examinations, an excellent way for you to determine if your boat conforms to federal and auxiliary safety requirements. In the event some of your equipment is not up to par or missing, you will be given a check list so that you can correct any deficiencies. If you pass, your boat will be awarded the Auxiliary Seal of Safety decal.

"Please take advantage of this service, you'll be glad you did," said P.H. Blake, Flotilla commander.

Boating safety tips

With the arrival of the 1978 summer boating season, the U.S. Coast Guard Office of Boating Safety is reminding sailing and motorboat enthusiasts to make a few precautionary preparations which will help ensure their safety on the nation's waterways.

Here are some suggestions: Examine your craft—Make needed repairs. Check for any hull damage, and inspect your fuel system, electrical system and ventilation ducts.

Examine your equipment—Make sure that you have all equipment required by the U.S. Coast Guard. In particular, check your personal flotation devices and fire extinguishers.

They must be the appropriate type (depending on the length of your boat) and they must be free from any defects.

Examine yourself—Are you totally familiar with all aspects of small craft seamanship? Do you know how to cope with any emergency situation that might arise? If not, now is the time to take a boating course from the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadrons, Red Cross, or State and local boating authorities.

"The building, when completed, will house the installation, cable repair and construction forces and their equipment and will be 38 feet wide by 57 feet in depth.

"Construction will consist of a monolithic concrete floor with structural steel framing, metal panel walls, and metal roof deck.

"Space is provided for four crew rooms, equipment storage, and necessary building service areas," Kyle said.

After explaining the building's exterior would be of brick veneer, the finish employed on adjacent company property, Kyle said, "This is another step in South Central Bell's continuing effort to provide the very best telephone service to Bay St. Louis, Waveland, and surrounding areas.

Now under construction by Gregory Constructors, Inc., the building should be ready for occupancy in August.

Storm tide ...

"The Bermuda High is not well set up until sometime in July," Vicroy pointed out, "and it's around the bottom of that high system that spawning hurricanes ride from the Atlantic into the Gulf."

"August and September are traditionally the worst months for hurricanes along the Gulf Coast," the weather official noted.

Vicroy said he doubts if the prediction of tidal surge in smaller rivers such as the East Pearl River in Hancock County will be accomplished in the near future as well as it is now done on the Mississippi River.

"The levee systems on the Mississippi as well as the multitude of U.S. Army Corps of Engineers measurements of the entire river made through the years are what make it possible for us to use this new system on that waterway," he continued.

Vicroy said the "Dynamic Routing Model" developed during the past three years is now used routinely to predict the downriver surge of floodwaters.

The forecast system can be reversed to envision effects of the reverse-flow caused by an impending tidal surge.

"We have effectively recreated on the model the upriver surge caused by Camille and Betsy," Vicroy noted.

The National Weather Service said tidal surges such as that generated by Hurricane Camille in 1969 are the most deadly forces unleashed by hurricanes.

The surge is a great dome of water, often 50 miles wide, that sweeps across the coastline near where the eye of a hurricane hits land, the weathermen explained.

"The surge, aided by the hammering effect of breaking waves, acts like a giant bulldozer, sweeping everything in its path," another spokesman for the service stated.

He estimated that nine out of every ten persons killed in a hurricane are victims of a tidal surge.

The scientists' opinions are borne out by the effects, well known in the Hancock County area, of the tidal wave of Hurricane Camille.

Other areas on record as being devastated by tidal waves include Galveston, flattened by a tidal surge at the turn of the Century, and Grand Isle, La., swept clean during Betsy in 1965.

Aerial photographs of Grand Isle the next day showed the island with the appearance of having been struck by a nuclear blast.

In the New Orleans area, Betsy sent a surge up the Gulf Outlet Canal, over back levees and through the levee of the Industrial Canal which links Lake Pontchartrain and the Mississippi River, inundating the eastern end of that city and killing 75.

Under the new system, the National Weather Service is feeding information about the coastal area into computers, including topography of the land, levees, water depths, observed effects of wind on water and other data.

The results have been printed out in map form for a number of variables, including the position of the storm at a given time, its intensity, radius of maximum winds, and speed of forward movement.

With regional transparencies placed over the map print-outs, water depths for specific sections during each minute of a storm can be read directly off a chart.

Current data for surge forecasts is spaced at four mile intervals, with NWS working to narrow that gap, according to Kenneth Crawford, marine meteorologist for the service.

The project currently rates top priority in the New Orleans Weather Service office, according to David P. Barnes Jr., meteorologist in charge.

The storm surge forecast project has been underway since 1976, Barnes noted.

Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

It was with a deep sense of grief that I learned of the recent death of Miss Mary Perkins. Truly, she was one of those rare and wonderful people who seem to be profoundly capable of unselfish devotion to family, friends, community and profession.

In retrospect, I pause and reflect upon my personal indebtedness to "Miss Mary". Certainly it is one also shared by the thousands of young people who passed through her class en route to the lofty educational, moral and personal values she set for her students.

Indeed, her years of dedicated service as a teacher have reaped for Hancock County a bountiful harvest of bright, positive, assured citizens for which she should be long remembered. Miss Mary was the embodiment of the gracious, strong, yet humble qualities which have always been the abiding strength of America. Thus I arrive at the point of this letter which is to say: "from one teacher, to the best teacher, who helped me along the way...thanks and God bless you, Miss Mary."

Sincerely,
James Larry Curet, B.A., M.A.

validity of the proposed loan, Bacon said it is his opinion that such a loan would not be validated without a special act of the legislature.

Phillips said that Bay St. Louis has reached its capacity in GENERAL FUND LEVIES.

"We have made a diligent effort to borrow the money to pay off the indebtedness and unless a special act of the legislature is passed the state bonding counsel won't let Bay St. Louis issue any more bonds," Phillips commented.

"This Council was burdened with problems from several other councils, it is something you inherited, it is unfortunate, but you have to live with it. This lawsuit is in no way related with any member of the Bay St. Louis council here, this happened many administrations ago. I sympathize with the position you are in, it is the same position as the new school busing in certain areas, you are ordered just like them by the federal court, to pay this indebtedness."

"There are a lot of other cities in the state suffering from money problems. A loan is out of the question. We have to submit a plan of payment to Judge Cox."

"If the plan is approved, it will cost the average tax payer approximately $10 each year for six years. It would be an additional 5 mills added to our tax structure," Phillips added.

Council member Fred Wagner asked Phillips, "How will we be able to add the five mills if we are at our maximum?"

Phillips replied, "If the court orders this city to add the five mills to their taxes in my opinion they will have to do it."

Wagner then asked, "What position will the city be in if a tax payer objects?"

Phillips commented, "We are asking in the plan that a hearing be held in Federal court, and the taxpayers will be given an opportunity to object."

Council president James Thrifflay said, "I think the avenue is clear," and tried to get a motion on the acceptance of The Supplemental Plan for the Adjustment of the Estate of Jimmy Ray Warner, II. No one made the motion and council went into further discussion.

Philadelphia, Ms., was taken to Hancock General and later transferred to Gulfport Memorial Hospital, apparently suffering a fractured skull as well as internal and external bleeding, officers said.

Also treated for skull fracture at Hancock General Hospital was passenger Johnny Wells, 22, also of Philadelphia, the investigators reported.

The officers said Murry, apparently driving at a high rate of speed, crashed through a lighted barricade on Third Street and into culverts which had been left in the street during drainage construction work.

The accident occurred about 10:15 p.m. Saturday, police said.

Also during the past weekend, two burglaries were reported to city police, according to Chief Williams.

Various valuable items including a citizen's band radio and shotgun were taken from the home of Norman Smith, 321 St. George St.

Also taken at the time of the Friday

Finally Council President Thrifflay made the motion to accept the plan and Harry Farve seconded the motion. Council was reluctant to vote on the motion.

Bevenutti voted, "No," stating, "It is against my grain to put on five mills debt to this community without a public hearing."

Phillips told the council they were under the law required to submit a plan. "The judge was already said you are going to pay the debt."

Mayor Larry Bennett, after council passed the motion by a three to one vote commented, "I sign under protest. It is unfair for everyone to pay the lawsuit."

Council Attorney Joseph Gex, added, "It is not a pleasant task, the reason for the five mills is it is something Judge Cox might accept."

Phillips said that he and George Morse were trying to get by without the city having to pay interest.

If the city could borrow the money it would cost approximately $275,000 more according to Thrifflay for interest.

This special meeting of the Bay council was to be a meeting between the Planning and Zoning Commission but was called off by the president of the Zoning and Planning Commission during the day. Council members were rather disturbed by their not showing up for the meeting called at their request by the Zoning and Planning Commission.

Council member Wilmer Seymour, on duty with the Mississippi National Guard, missed the meeting. Continued to second tape.

The Supplemental Plan for adjustment in part says "That the court enter an order directing the Mayor and Councilmen of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, to adopt a resolution imposing an extraordinary assessment on the property located within the City of Bay St. Louis, subject to ad valorem taxation, in the amount of five mills, to be levied and collected beginning January 1, 1979, and continuing thereafter until the judgment in the amount of Three Hundred Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($375,000) has been paid; that said order further provide that the money so collected be paid into the registry of the court to be disbursed by order of this court."

NATURAL GAS: SUPPLIES AND SHORTAGES

Natural gas is in great demand because of its pollution-free characteristics convenience and relatively low price. But a shortage of this energy source has added urgency to the question of whether the federal government should continue to regulate natural gas prices.

This question now has reached middle age, first becoming an issue with passage of the Natural Gas Act of 1938, some 40 years ago. The controversy has raged since then, sharply dividing the American people and the Congress.

The question is very complex. On the one hand, those who support continued regulation argue that deregulation would drive up the price, creating another hardship for the average consumer. They contend that the basic laws of supply and demand — the very same laws that form the foundation of our free enterprise system — can't be trusted to hold the price of natural gas at an affordable level.

But what they don't tell you is that without the economic incentive for producers to get the gas out of the ground, there simply won't be any natural gas. The key issue, then, is availability.

Those who desire total and immediate deregulation assert that the free market — or what's left of it — can best accommodate a pricing structure, and that higher prices would stimulate new supplies. Since the producing cost is only a fraction of the total consumer price, only moderate increases in price to the user should follow deregulation.

The problem has been compounded by questions over the supply of natural gas from discovery through production. The total proven reserves reached their high point in 1968 at 292.9 trillion cubic feet and, since then, production from these proven reserves has exceeded new discoveries.

As a result, current reserves have dwindled and can only sustain present production for another 10 years or so. During the period of April, 1975, through March, 1976, the pipelines were unable to deliver 20 percent of the gas they had promised their customers. "Curtailments" resulted, and more curtailments were projected to total 3.9 trillion cubic feet during early 1978.

President Carter's national energy plan sought a price limit of about $1.75 per thousand cubic feet for "new" natural gas sold on both the interstate and intrastate markets. On Aug. 5, 1977, the House passed that provision and also broadened the definition of "new" gas to make more gas eligible for the higher prices.

On Oct. 4, 1977, the Senate voted to deregulate newly discovered natural gas and the issue remains at the heart of energy legislation over which congressional conferees are still wrangling. Prices more than likely will go up regardless of whether federal price controls are lifted.

Farmers Market has successful opening

By ELLIS CUEVAS

As the clock rolled up to 7 a.m. Saturday, Hancock County's Farmers Market officially opened its second season.

The first purchase made was by B.D. "Fip" Johnson. Johnson made a purchase of new potatoes from farmer Gus McCovery of Daphne, Ala. McCovery was also on hand last year for the opening day.

The Farmers market opened four weeks earlier than last year, yet a wide range of produce was available. There were new potatoes, green, white and yellow squash, tomatoes, sweet peppers, okra, string beans, green onions, white and yellow onions, english peas, fresh yard eggs, home ground grits and corn meal and two stands of hanging baskets and potted plants.

Bay St. Louis' Miss Hospitality contestants were on hand to greet the early risers.

Edro Lee of Leetown and Mrs. Elaine Hunter were Hancock County farmers with produce. Larry Anderson representing Lofton Farms of Gulfport had a pickup full of fresh snap beans.

Mrs. Toxie Mitchell of Picayune offered home ground grits and corn meal. Mrs. Lee Wimpy of Gulfport and Mrs. Henry Splers offered hanging baskets and potted plants and flowers.

At 10 a.m., Dick Thomas, president of Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, welcomed everyone at the official grand opening.

Rev. Charles, Clark, pastor, First Assembly of God Church, Waveland, gave the invocation.

In his remarks, Master of Ceremonies Thomas said he wanted this to be the biggest Farmers market on the Coast.

Frank Lee, president of the Hancock County Farm Bureau told the audience the Farm Bureau has 2,000 families, putting about 8,000 people in its membership. Lee closing by saying, "I am happy to see this farmers market is growing again."

J.D. "Big John" Rutherford, Hancock County Chancery Court Clerk welcomed the crowd, noting how in just seven and a half years, Hancock County has grown 80 percent in assessed valuations.

Mayor Larry Benzett of Bay St. Louis, in talking about the farmers, mentioned how they accomplish something which enables us to enjoy the fruits of life.

Barbara Rappold, city clerk of Waveland, said, "we are glad the Farmers Market is open again because you can't beat this fresh produce."

County Agent John Smith commented, "We had been trying for several years to get something for the farmers, a place for them to sell their produce, and last year we had a total of 27 vendors. The success of this market is a joint effort among everyone."

L.J. Breaux, chairman of the Agricultural Committee, Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, told of future plans for the Farmers Market.

Breaux mentioned plans for a special place for the market on the fair grounds. Breaux, as well as all involved, were happy with the fact that before 10 a.m. more than 200 people had already visited the market.

Pete Odom, Mississippi State agriculture marketing specialist, represented the state at the grand opening. Odom works state-wide with farmers markets and reported there are 29 now in the state with 39 more being considered.

Bill Lee of the Mississippi Farmers Association, also attended.

After opening remarks, a political forum was held with candidates seeking the post of United States Senator or their representatives speaking on behalf of their candidacies.

The Hancock County Farmers market is now open every Saturday and Wednesday at 7 a.m. The market is co-sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, Hancock County Farm Bureau and Hancock County Extension Service.

Waveland's seven Miss Hospitality contestants were on hand for the grand opening ceremonies. The reigning Miss Hospitality, Barbara Bourgeois, and contestants were given police escort to the fairgrounds.

Food and beverage concession for the festivities were manned by the congregation of the First Assembly of God Church, Waveland.

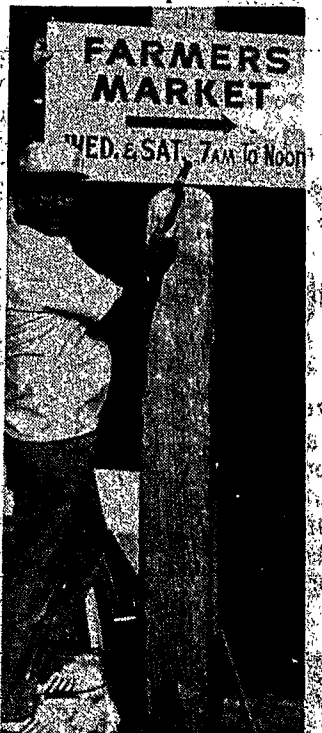

NOT FOR SALE - Sanders Burke Kane, eight week old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kane, doesn't have a worry in the world as he waits for his mother to make purchase. The bushel of string beans were one of the many fresh produce items on sale Saturday. (Staff photo - Ellis Cuevas)

Paul, Kathy Koch, Beverly Summers, and Tish Haas. Contestant Lia Bogley was unable to appear. Kathy Koch was crowned Bay St. Louis' Miss Hospitality last Saturday. (Staff photo - Ellis Cuevas)

Agency warnings cite dangerous sweatshirt

Paul Rankin of the Mississippi State Board of Health reports that the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has been notified by the Gap Stores, Inc. that 4,150 potentially flammable women's sweatshirts with the Gap label were sold by their stores nationwide during October, November and December of 1977.

These sweatshirts failed to comply with a federal flammability standard. They were purchased by Gap from San Francisco Shirt Works, Inc., which earlier announced the recall of the same merchandise sold under its own label.

If exposed to an ignition source such as a cigarette ash, an open flame, or any spark, they could burn with a rapid and intense flame.

The sweatshirts are being voluntarily recalled by the San Francisco Shirt Works, Inc. and the purchase price refunded. All of the ladies' sweatshirts are 100 percent cotton, fleecy side out, with long sleeves.

They have sewn-in black labels at the back of the neck which say "Gap" in light gray stitching and separate labels which say "Made in Hong Kong."

The following styles of "Gap" labeled sweatshirts failed to comply with the federal standard for flammability of clothing (textiles):

-winter white pullover with small center pocket for hands

-winter white or blue with zippered front, regular collar, and two front pockets.

Persons who believe they have these sweatshirts should write for refund procedures to: San Francisco Shirt Works, Inc., Attn: Nancy Bush, 1111-17th Street, San Francisco, California 94107.

They may also call CPSC's toll-free hotline (800) 638-2666 for refund instructions.

Consumers are urged to stop wearing these sweatshirts and to start the refund process immediately. CPSC warns that burning clothing can cause severe and disfiguring burns, and urges women to return the potentially hazardous sweatshirts at once.

This is the first time these companies' products have been the source of such hazards. San Francisco Shirt Works has permanently dropped the suspect fabric from its line of products and will not reorder the same fabrication from the manufacturer.

For further information call Paul Rankin at 354-6616.

Teacher course in shorthand offered by USM

A teacher training seminar in Century 21 Shorthand is scheduled for July 31-August 4 at the University of Southern Mississippi.

The course will allow teachers to become acquainted with an effective shorthand system that is easy for students to learn and at the same time earn credit for certificate renewal.

The five-day learning session carries three semester hours graduate credit, which can be applied toward certificate renewal.

Doris Youngman, a Century 21 shorthand representative with South-Western Publishing Company, will be course consultant. Dr. Donna Connerly, an assistant professor of business education at USM, will be course instructor.

A panel discussion is planned for teachers who have been teaching Century 21 for some time, specifically to relate their experiences.

The workshop will be conducted from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Business Administration Bldg. on North 31st Avenue, according to coordinator Dr. Annette Bonner of the USM faculty.

UM poll finds opposition to 'right to die' concept

Most Mississippians say a person does not have a right to end his own life, regardless of incurable disease, insufferable pain or the heavy burden placed upon the family, according to The Mississippi Poll conducted by The University of Mississippi Department of Journalism.

The Mississippi Poll is based on 298 telephone interviews conducted with Mississippians 18 years of age and older located in 74 sampling areas representing each region of the state in proportion to its population.

Asked if a person has a moral right to end his life under three different circumstances; 33.4 percent said he does when he has an incurable disease; 37.4 percent, when he is suffering great pain and has no hope of improvement; and 22 percent, when he is an extremely heavy burden on his family.

In cases where the patient is too ill, or injured in such a way that he could not make the decision for himself (such as a person who spends months on life-support machinery in a coma before dying), the decision to end life should be made by the family, 53 percent of the respondents said.

Some 33 percent said the doctor should decide, and 6 percent said such a decision should be left in the hands of God.

Among age groups, increasing opposition to ending one's own life was found among older respondents. Some 70 percent of the females answered "no" to each question while almost half of the men always said "yes."

Most black and white respondents agreed a person does not have the moral right to end his own life, but whites felt less strongly. Only 50 to 60 percent of whites said "no," while 75 percent of the blacks said "no."

Retired persons and housewives most often answered "no" to all questions about taking one's own life, while self-employed persons were most likely to say "yes."

Among income groups, a direct relationship was found between amount of income and acceptance of ending one's own life. The higher the income, the less likely a person was to answer "no."

The poll was administered by Harold May, a graduate student, under the supervision of the Department of Journalism faculty. Consistent with the Code of Ethics of the American Association for Public Opinion Research, names of persons interviewed by the Mississippi Poll are confidential.

Homeowners Re-Side to Save

For the do-it-yourselfer, re-siding a home is an excellent money-saving project. You save on the installation and, if you choose aluminum, eliminate a paint job forever. The feeling of accomplishment afterward is the bonus.

According to Hunter Douglas, manufacturer of aluminum home improvement products, anyone who is handy around the home can put up exterior-siding. Siding is available in smooth or wood grain finish, in cream, beige and gray tones and blue, green, yellow, gold, bronze and brown. In addition to the standard 8" horizontal panel, siding styles include vertical, bevel-edged or narrow clapboard siding and twin-four, which has a shadow line effect to simulate overlapping panels.

If you're a siding novice, keep these steps in mind: Read literature that will give you step-by-step instruction before you begin. Select and purchase your siding. If in doubt, take exact measurements to a local dealer who can help estimate the amount of material needed. Set aside a few weekends to do the job in stages. Decide whether to remove existing siding or to side over it. Asbestos shingles might need to be removed but wood siding often doesn't.

And, remember that you can get extra insulation included in the job if you select siding panels which have foam of fiberboard backing already attached. For step-by-step instructions, write for a free booklet to Marketing Department, N.A. Hunter Douglas, Inc., P.O. Box 650, Durham, North Carolina 27702.

Hall of Famers seek former baseball great

The National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum is seeking information on Charles Frank, a turn-of-the-century major leaguer who resided in Bay St. Louis around 1920, according to Hall of Fame historian Clifford Kachline.

Frank played with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1893-94 and with various minor league teams during the 1890's. In 1901 he was one of the organizers of the Southern League and managed (and probably owned) the Memphis club in 1901-03, then the New Orleans club from 1904-1913 and the Atlanta nine from 1916 to 1921.

The veteran ballplayer resided in Bay St. Louis several years just prior to his death in Memphis, Tenn. Any information about this major leaguer of yesteryear or relatives still living in this area should be sent to Clifford S. Kachline, historian, National Baseball Hall of Fame and Museum, Inc., Cooperstown, New York 13326.

Honorable Mayor and Councilmen
City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi
Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520

Gentlemen:

We have completed our audit of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, for the year ended September 30, 1977, and in the course of our examination, we have noted certain matters which we wish to bring to your attention.

(1) A substantial sum of personal property taxes was shown on the city records as being delinquent and uncollected. We feel the city should consult with its attorney and try to arrive at some manner of enforcing the collection of this tax and get his advice on the possibility of board action.

(2) Some changes were made on the land rolls after they were added and adopted. The valuations on the land rolls should never be changed from the original assessment either by erasure or marking through and writing another amount after the roll is adopted. Any changes should be made only on an order entered on the minutes of the board and the change should appear on a supplemental roll showing page number, line number, original assessed valuation, new assessed valuation, minute book number and page number where the change was authorized. A notation only should be shown on the original which would direct one's attention to the supplemental roll for the changed amount. This would also apply to over age 65 and homestead exemption adjustments.

(3) There is presently no control for the recording of collections on special assessments. In order to correct this, we recommend that one of the clerical personnel add the balances due from individuals on each street and post each street total to a street control account, which would precede each street in the special assessments ledger. After this is done, the total of all street control account balances would be posted to a master control account, which should be located in the front of the ledger. Thereafter, on a daily basis as collections are received, the individual taxpayer's account would be credited, the total of the collections for the particular street would be credited to the street control, and the total collections of all streets for that day would be credited to the master control. Furthermore, at the end of each month, the individual accounts should be added and balanced to the street control and the street controls would be added and balanced to the master control. By balancing the special assessments ledger on a monthly basis, any errors in posting would be isolated to that particular month and should be easy to find and correct. We also recommend that the responsibility for posting, balancing and maintaining the special assessments ledger be delegated to only one person in the tax department.

We believe this to be an area where the internal staff would be of invaluable assistance in setting up the control accounts and implementing the aforementioned procedures.

(4) Our examination of bids for supplies indicated the city is making an effort to obtain bids, even though many suppliers will not submit long term bids because of inflation. Therefore, if you buy from a non-bid source, we recommend that the reason for doing so be documented in the minutes.

(5) Our examination of cash disbursements revealed some bills paid by statements only were not cancelled upon payment and were not all signed as to receipt of goods.

Proper internal control dictates that invoices should be matched to statements; that all bills be stamped "paid" after the warrant is written, and that invoices be signed by the person receiving the goods. Also, when invoices are received, they should be checked for extensions and clerical accuracy.

(6) In examining payrolls, we noted that payroll time records submitted to the payroll clerk were not being signed by the heads of some departments. We recommend that all department heads be instructed to either sign or initial all payroll time records turned in by them to the payroll clerk.

In our examination of hourly employee wage rates and raises, we were told that some authorizations for the rate of pay and raises were given verbally to the payroll clerk. We recommend that new employee's wage rates, and raises for old employees, be authorized in the minutes giving the name of the employee, the amount and the effective date. We also recommend that the termination of any employee, by reason of quitting, being fired or dismissed be made a matter of the minutes giving the employee's name and date of termination.

We have been asked by the mayor to design a payroll record system for use in the future. We will proceed with this request in the near future.

(7) In examining the city budget, we noted that, with the exception of the Revenue Sharing Fund, the city budgets only those funds which bear a tax levy and that no amended budget is prepared. We recommend that you prepare budgets of all funds and that in August of each year you amend your current budget and at the same time prepare the new budget for the ensuing year. Furthermore, these budgets should be adopted in the minutes.

(8) We observed a number of old warrants that have been outstanding and have not been presented for payment on the various bank accounts. We suggest that these items be reviewed and the necessary procedures be implemented to insure their cancellation. Further entries should be made to the books restoring the cancelled warrants to the bank balance and reducing the appropriate account.

(9) In the course of our examination it appeared that there was some delay from the time cash was received to the time of deposit. We recommend that deposits be made the next banking day following receipt of all revenue.

(10) We recommend the city maintain a property record of all equipment and assets owned. This record should indicate all pertinent data in order that a verification of same can be made when necessary. Assets should be accounted for upon acquisition or deletion in these records.

(11) We suggest the city keep better control of the petty cash funds maintained in the tax collector's and mayor's office. Vouchers should be used to account for cash expended from these funds. The vouchers should be signed both by the recipient and the authorized custodian of the fund. The type of expenditure, purpose and department should be noted on the voucher and the receipt should be attached.

Reimbursements to replenish petty cash funds should be arrived at by adding all paid vouchers and warrant drawn for the total. Voucher and receipts should be cancelled and filed with all other paid bills for the month.

(12) Insurance policies and bonds should be reviewed periodically for coverage amounts and property covered. An insurance register should be maintained in the city hall which would indicate all pertinent insurance information and would be available for reference. All insurance policies should be kept together in a central location and not filed by department or in the various offices.

(13) It came to our attention that the procedures presently followed in handling tax sale property and redemptions should be reviewed with your attorney for compliance with the law. An updated list of property sold to the city should be maintained and those parcels maturing to the city should be reviewed each year.

Many of the suggestions mentioned above have been included in recommendations of prior years' management letters. The purpose of a system of internal control is to safeguard the assets of the system, check the accuracy and reliability of its accounting data, promote operational efficiency, and encourage adherence to prescribed managerial policies. While these weaknesses exist, the system of internal control continues to be inadequate in those areas and necessarily extends the scope of our audit examination. These areas mentioned all represent potential sources of loss to the city because of the absence of a control feature, which would deter or prevent such an occurrence.

Honorable Mayor and Councilmen
City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi
Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520

Gentlemen:

We have completed our audit of the Utility Funds of the City of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, for the year ended September 30, 1977, and in the course of our examination, we have noted certain matters which we wish to bring to your attention.

(1) There appears to be no set procedure or authorized person, charged with the responsibility of approving the following:

- Customers credit balances forfeited to the city utility department.
- Meter deposits forfeited to the city utility department.
- Allowances for adjustments and/or refunds to utility customers.
- Bad debt write-offs and bad debts subsequently collected.

We have recommended that the utility department maintain a bound journal, separated into sections in which entries for the above items should be recorded. In order that internal control be maintained it is necessary that this journal show approval by a designated responsible person or by the council by including their approval on the minutes.

(2) It was noted during the course of our examination that the city has never claimed a credit or obtained a refund from the State Tax Commission for sales tax previously paid on utility services which were later written off as bad debts. This credit would amount to approximately $300.00 - $400.00 dollars per year. It is our understanding that the city could claim the credits for the prior years that have not been barred by the statute of limitations. Provision for this credit is made in section 27-65-33 of the Mississippi Code of 1972.

(3) We observed a number of old outstanding warrants that have been outstanding and have not been presented for payment on the various bank accounts. We suggest that these items be reviewed and the necessary procedures be implemented to insure their cancellation. Further, entries should be made to the books restoring the canceled warrants to the bank balance and reducing the appropriate account.

(4) We recommend that the utility department, effective immediately obtain a pre-numbered bound receipt book in which to receipt the funds received for taps fees, material sales and any other miscellaneous revenue. At present the city uses unbound, un-numbered city statements for receipts.

(5) In the course of our examination it appeared that there was some delay from the time cash was received to the time of deposit. This time lapse appeared to be more prevalent in the meter deposit fund. We recommend that deposits be made the next banking day following receipt of all revenue.

(6) We recommend the city's accountant, after preparation of adjustments and journal entries, give an adequate explanation as to the reason for the entries. We further suggest adjustments be entered in a bound book, in order that adjusting entries are not misplaced.

(7) Our examination of cash disbursements revealed some bills paid by statements only, were not cancelled upon payment and were not all signed as to receipt of goods.

(8) Our examination of bids for supplies indicated the city is making an effort to obtain bids, even though many suppliers will not submit long term bids because of inflation. Therefore, if purchases are made from a non-bid source, we recommend that the reason for doing so be documented in the minutes.

(9) We recommend a periodic test be made on the calculations of gas and water bills made by the computer. This should be done especially after re-programming to insure accurate calculation and bills. One of our tests revealed a miscalculation on each water customer on one entire route. This amount was not material in comparison to total billings.

(10) Checks returned by the bank should be handled in such a manner that the billing department is aware of each returned check. We suggest procedures be implemented to assure the timely collection of NSF checks and or recharging the customer for NSF checks held for the new billing period.

(11) We recommend that a review of the existing insurance covering the various assets of the utility system be made. Particular emphasis should be placed on the possibility of dual coverage being enforced on certain properties. We recommend that all insurance policies be kept together and filed in an appropriate place.

(12) We recommend that the accountant expand the accounts currently in use in order that a more detailed breakdown be available for expenditures. The following accounts should be added to have a more meaningful financial report:

- Autos, trucks and equipment - operational cost
- Postage
- Purchase of water and gas meters
- Sub-contractors - this account should be charged only with amounts expended for work done by other parties under contract or agreement and not for expenditures incurred using city personnel or material purchased by the utility department.
- Repairs and maintenance - autos, trucks and equipment
- Auto allowances and travel
- We suggest that the personnel responsible for assigning account numbers to invoices and for expenditures have a thorough understanding of the items which comprise the account.

(13) Payrolls - The following items appear to need correcting:

- An authorized and approved salary list for all salaried and hourly personnel. This should be up dated annually.
- Time cards should be properly dated and signed by employee and supervisor. They should be checked for accuracy and initialed there on.
- Overtime worked by salaried personnel should have the appropriate prior authorization.
- There are no time and attendance records maintained in which to accumulate or charge employees for leave, sick and vacation time. We recommend that consideration be given to adopting a policy covering these type absences.

(14) The fixed assets of the utility system should be recorded on the system's general ledger. Depreciation on these assets should be calculated and expensed in arriving at net operating results from operations. It is a way to allocate the cost of the fixed asset over its useful life, and it provides a means of providing a portion of the income as a source of potential replacement of obsolete or dilapidated assets. This would require the taking of a property inventory and the capitalization of all equipment and property. This would mean to list all the equipment with its original cost, date of acquisition, expected useful life, and anticipated salvage value. We would recommend that you devise a system for numbering and recording property belonging to the utility system to provide safeguard over possible loss due to fire or theft. This property inventory could be observed annually and updated as needed.

(15) The materials available for sale by the system should be inventoried and kept under control whereby they are issued upon requisition. The inventory of material is necessary in determining cost of sales under an enterprise accounting system. Beginning inventory added to purchase during the year constitutes goods available for sale. After subtracting ending inventory the cost of materials sold is the result. This would make an annual physical inventory of material necessary at September 30 of each year.

(16) The long term debt owed by the utility system and the amount owed on installment contracts (such as the amount owed on the Burroughs equipment) should be recorded on the general ledger of the funds. This would mean including as a liability those bonds not yet matured. It would also mean recording installment contracts on all purchases as well as other trade related liabilities. The financial position is impossible to determine with these items missing.

(17) The utility system's present method of accounting does not provide for the recording and amortization of any prepaid items. Items are expensed as incurred even if their useful life runs beyond the end of the accounting year. Accounting for an enterprise fund would only expense that portion expired during the year, while the balance would be recorded as a prepaid asset at the close of the year.

(18) As mentioned in our previous management letters we recommend that the utility system record the acquisition of new equipment as an asset and record the related depreciation over the estimated life of the item as opposed to the current practice of showing the entire cost as an expenditure. Further, a property ledger should be designed in which to record all pertinent information relating to the assets.

Several of the suggestions mentioned above have been included in recommendations of prior years' management letters. The purpose of a system of internal control is to safeguard the assets of the system, check the accuracy and reliability of its accounting data, promote operational efficiency, and encourage adherence to prescribed managerial policies. While these weaknesses exist, the system of internal control continues to be inadequate in those areas and necessarily extends the scope of our audit examination. These areas mentioned all represent potential sources of loss to the city because of the absence of a control feature which would deter or prevent such an occurrence.

After all day hauling cotton, I see my first train

by S. Grady Thigpen, county historian

S. GRADY THIGPEN

The first train I ever saw stands out as one of the most vividly remembered events of my childhood days up in Jasper County. Back then there were many children living back in the rural areas of Mississippi long distances from a railroad who had never seen a train. Twenty-two miles was as far away in travel time back then as 200-250 miles or more now.

My father went the long distance of 22 miles to the nearest railroad town about two or three times a year. A trip to the railroad town was a big event and a considerable undertaking. My father had promised to take me on his first trip after my 10th birthday.

The big day when I was to go came at last. We went to bed a little earlier than usual the night before so as to get up and be off in the early morning. The wagon was loaded with two bales of cotton the evening before. The feed for the mules was stored on the wagon and enough food for the two of us was cooked and stored in a good sized bucket. An uncle, who lived nearby, made the trip along with us, also taking two bales of cotton. When daylight came, we were two or three miles down the long dusty road towards the railroad town. As it got light enough to see objects at a distance, we noticed the dog following us, but staying back out of sight as he knew he would be driven back if seen. When the dog realized he had been seen, he ran up with a great show of friendly tail wagging and yelping. Since it was too far to hope to send him back, he went on with us.

About 11 o'clock, we stopped near a bubbling clear running, little stream to feed and water the teams and give them a rest. We of course, ate our own lunch too. After a rest of about an hour, we drove on. Along past the middle of the afternoon, we reached our destination. The teams were tied up to a hitching rack near the store, and about 200 to 300 feet from the railroad tracks.

As soon as we went into the store I asked the merchant about seeing a train. He told me that a train was due in a short time, and that if I would wait on the front of the store, I would be sure to see it. The teams were tired and standing sleepily by the hitching rack, the tired dog had crawled under the bench on the store front where I sat and was soon sound asleep. I had not been sitting there long when I heard such a noise as I had never heard before. I not only had never seen or heard a train, but so far as I can remember had never even seen a picture of one. I had no conception of how one looked or how one sounded. I watched expectantly for the appearance of the train, as the noise became louder and louder.

The mules pricked up their ears; the dog half rose on his front feet watching in the direction of the big noise. Suddenly the engine, puffing great clouds of black smoke came around the curve in the track not far from where we were.

As I watched, spellbound by what I saw, I noticed out of the corner of my eye, both teams rearing up and trying desperately to break away. At about the same time, I became conscious of a lightning like streak of movement towards another store building, about a hun-dered feet away, which I realized was the dog as he lunged, without slacking his speed for the open space under the building, hitting the ground with his body when a few feet away, so that his terrific momentum would carry him on to safety. Since then, I have wondered who was the most excited, the teams, the dog, or myself.

It must have been about sundown when, with all the business attended to, we left the little railroad town on the way back home. About dark, we came to a wooded area with a little stream close by, about three or four miles out, and camped for the night. The horses were tied to the front wheels of the wagon and fed from the body. We raked up straw and leaves out in the open, laid out blankets over them and went to sleep. Along in the night a big rain came up. We moved under the wagon but got wet anyway from the blowing rain.

Early next morning, as soon as we could see, we started up the now muddy road towards home. Much to the chagrin of both my father and uncle, a near cut road through an old man's pasture was barred by a locked gate, and we had to go about an extra three miles - a big detour with a wagon over a muddy road - to get around the old man's place. Both my father and uncle were loud in their condemnation of the old man.

About an hour after sun-up, we were passing the farm of the old man who had blocked the road. My uncle was driving along about 100 feet ahead of my father's wagon. Just after he passed an old time cotton house which stood close to the road, he called back to my father and asked him what he thought of a man that would block a good road and force people to go around the bad way.

My father used unprintable language in saying what he thought of such a man. About that time, we came, in our wagon, up even with and began passing the cotton house. Standing there beside the cotton house, out of our view until then, was the white bearded old man, his hands in his overcoat pockets, looking straight at us from under the visor of an old time cap, with the flaps pulled down over his ears. He had heard every word my father had said about him. My father blushed a deep red, kept his eyes straight ahead and drove on. My uncle laughed about this until he died at 89 about 55 years later.

How times have changed! Young people of today have almost no realization of how people lived, moved about and thought 70 to 75 years ago. I now drive that 22 miles that used to take all day with a slow team, in about 20 or 25 minutes. This is a true story out of my own experience but when I tell my children and grandchildren things like this, they smile in disbelief.

Getting old slips up on you. You go along pretty much as you always have, without realizing that the years are passing so fast. Then, something happens to make you realize that you are now considered old by the younger people.

Some years ago, some good friends of mine went over to the Washington Parish Fair at Franklinton. When I saw them a few days later, they told me of their trip over there and of what they saw. Among the exhibits that most impressed them, was one where old time things were displayed - spinning wheels, wash pots, dog irons, wooden ware buckets and churns, and earthenware pots and vessels for water and milk. Then the man of the family said to me, "You ought to go over there and see it. When I saw all those things, along with the old grindstone, the wood plow, and the old time pot bellied stove, I thought of you."

Of course, everybody present laughed, including myself, when he said that, at which he blushed and began to try to be very tactful, explaining that he knew I was interested in old things as he knew I had a good collection of old pictures, among other things. Of course, I knew he meant nothing disrespectful to me, however, when I got home, I slipped over to a mirror, by myself, to take a good look to see what about me would make him think of a pot bellied stove.

Free organ extravaganza to be Moelmannswansong

Keesler Air Force Base will join the Friends of the Saenger in once again presenting Major Jack Moelmann at the theatre organ in the third and final "Those Were the Days" musical extravaganza.

Two concerts will be held at Biloxi's Saenger Theatre, Friday and Saturday, June 16-17 at 8 p.m.

Admission is free. Moelmann, concert organist and showman, will recreate days of yesteryear as he fills the old theatre with sounds from his powerful theatre organ.

"The evenings promise to be entertaining to the old as well as the young," said Moelmann.

L. S. Walker takes DD degree at SE Baptist College

The Doctor of Divinity degree was conferred upon Reverend Lester S. Walker of Waveland and Piquette at commencement exercises at Southeastern Baptist College, Laurel, last Friday, according to Earl W. Knight, dean of the college.

The honorary degree was conferred by Rev. Eugene Murphy, president of Southeastern.

Dr. Walker, veteran pastor, editor and columnist, served for some time as interim pastor of the Old Spanish Trail Baptist Church in Waveland. Born April 27, 1913, near Piquette, he has pastored churches in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama for some 38 years.

He has also served in many positions of denominational leadership on the local, state and national level, including two one-year terms as president of the Baptist Missionary Association of America.

Mostly in retirement due to a heart ailment, he continues to write his weekly newspaper column.

He is a member of the board of directors of Prisoners Bible Crusade and in his 12th year as chairman of the Mississippi Baptist Commission on History.

He is also director of public information for the churches of the Baptist Missionary Association of Mississippi.

Dr. Walker drafted and presented the resolution adopted by BMA in annual session in 1948, which established the Laurel college.

He served on its first board of trustees for 15 years.

music which focuses on the theatre organ of the 1920s and 1930s as well as other popular, novelty, Broadway, and semiclassical music," he added.

Other features will include appearances by the elite Keesler Male Chorus, the Air Force Band of the Gulf Coast, and a dance review on stage by Donna Burke's School of Dance.

"In addition, I will accompany a historic silent film each evening starring Snub Pollard, Ben Turpin, and other famous silent film stars, as well as a sing-a-long with the words on the giant screen," he said.

Moelmann is assigned to the Communications-Electronics Doctrine Office at Keesler. This office will be sponsoring the concerts for the third year.

He is an electrical engineer, and has created an organ system which is a one-man band.

The organ contains a remote-controlled, electro-pneumatic band which includes numerous drums and percussions, orchestral bells, cathedral chimes, xylophone, glockenspiel, whistles, horns, and much more similar to the old Wuritzer Theatre Pipe Organs used during the silent movie era.

He has been a professional organist since age 12. He has performed in many of the large theatres around the country, the major hotels on the Gulf Coast, and recently

He is also the director of the Keesler Male Chorus which will perform in concert at each show.

Moelmann will be leaving Keesler for an assignment to the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va., in July.

This will be his last public concert on the Gulf Coast and the third and last "Those were the Days."

"For this reason, the evening will be packed with many musical attractions," said Moelmann. "Both evening concerts will follow similar formats; however, much of the music to be presented will be different. Different silent films and sing-a-longs will be presented."

Buccaneer Crew Notes

by DIDDY QUINLAN

School's out and we're beginning to feel it at Buccaneer Park.

Many local people came out to enjoy our newly-opened wading pool. Although there is a charge for use of the pool this summer, it is nominal.

For a full day of swimming, each swimmer from 5-11 years old pays only 50 cents each swimmer 12 and over pays $1; and there is no charge for swimmers under 5 years of age.

The pool is open Tuesday through Sunday (closed on Mondays) from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Every swimmer, campers and local residents alike will pay this fee.

Well, next weekend is Memorial Day Weekend, and a full slate of activities is planned.

Friday night's movie is "Way Out West," a Laurel and Hardy classic.

Other activities will include our kid's craft session, a ping-pong tournament, and a horseshoe contest.

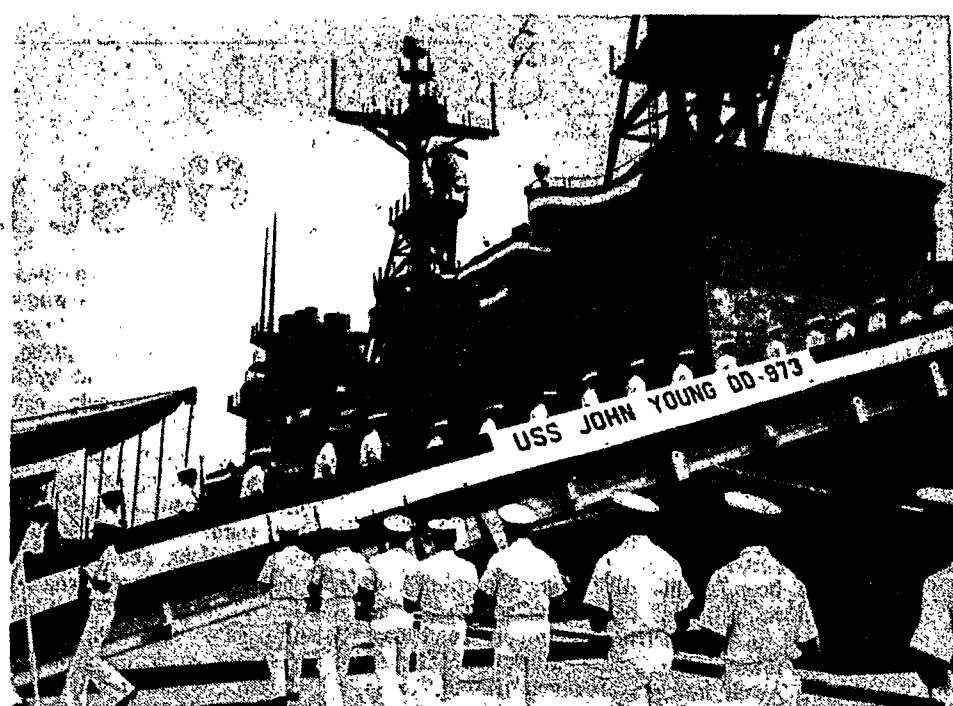

These are just a few of the many activities that will be conducted over the weekend.

Last weekend's winners excelled in three categories: shuffleboard, shove-a-penny, and skateboarding.

Shuffleboard was won by those old stand-bys, Betty and Richard Ferrier. Sometimes I think they go home to Chalmette and practice that sport until it's time for their next trip to Buccaneer!

Shove-a-penny, an English pub game was dominated by the Langston sisters, visiting Brownies from Port Sulphur, La. Laurie Langston, 8, barely beat out older sister Christi, 9, for the first place title.

First place in skateboard contest was won by Robert Dickerson, 13, of Avondale, La. with Robby Barnes, a season curtain

Opera Theatre brings down

Gulf Coast Opera Theater Chorus, under visiting director Florence Presti of New Orleans, will present its final work of the current season at 8:15 p.m. Friday at Jeff Davis Junior college Theater, Debuys Road, Biloxi.

The presentation will feature members of the Gulf Coast Opera Workshop in arias, trios, sextets and a general ensemble.

Local members of the Chorus include Pat Fayard and Rose Ann Thomas.

Ms. Thomas and John Mumm will sing the duet "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" from Naughty Marietta.

The group will open its fall season in October with a production of Camelot.

Echoes

Misses Rachael and Mabel Norgress have returned from a weeks cruise from New Orleans on the Liner Odessa.

Stops were made at Montego Bay, Jamaica and the English Island of Grand Cayman. Enroute back they stopped at Cozumel, Mex.

The Misses Norgress participated in the many activities on ship and won prizes in the Mardi Gras contests.

Miss Rachel remained in New Orleans to attend the spring luncheon of the New Orleans Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution. As chairman of Conservation she presented the National DAR medal in conservation to Ellis Laborde, general manager of City Park, who is retiring after 35 years service.

CORRECTION

Kevin Necaise, nominated to Boys State from Hancock North Central High School, was inadvertently identified in Sunday's Echo as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmah Necaise. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nicole Necaise Jr. Mrs. Necaise is the former Wilmah Necaise. The Echo regrets this error.

COME EXPECTING A MIRACLE

EVERYONE INVITED

In Jesus one will find life is worth living because we can commune with God. We can aspire toward his likeness, reach beyond our grasp to have this peace which passes all understanding. Without Jesus we are only existing. To miss being a part of "the Body of Christ" is like to have utter failure. If your life is a failure and you only exist why not right now, let God light a flame in your heart and soul? Then, keep walking with God and watch the flicker grow into a great fire. In Jesus there is no loneliness and no aloneness, only peace and joy in the Holy Ghost.
